Tim Woolford, founder and principal of Woolford Law, P.C. is pleased to announce that Richard S. Solove has recently joined the firm as Of Counsel. According to Woolford, “we at Woolford Law are delighted to have an attorney with the experience and depth in his practice areas joins our firm. His association with our firm will be an immense benefit to our clients.”

Solove brings 40 years of a broad range of business and commercial legal experience to Woolford Law and will concentrate on business counseling, entity formation, corporate governance, regulatory compliance, acquisitions, and real estate matters.

Recently serving as Attorney-in-Charge of the Lancaster office of McNeese Wallace & Nurick LLC, Solove provided legal services to family businesses, residential and commercial builders, manufacturing companies, real estate developers, hotel companies, and professional firms (medical, dental and legal).

Solove earned his law degree from Brooklyn Law School, cum laude, and a Bachelor of Business Administration from New York University. He has been a resident of Lancaster County since 1970.

Established in 2006, Woolford Law has rapidly grown to represent over 250 businesses many of which are involved with construction and real estate development. It serves as general counsel to the vast majority of its clients counseling them in all aspects of their businesses. While the goal is risk avoidance, on the occasions when formal dispute resolution becomes necessary, Woolford Law’s attorneys take pride in their aggressive strategy and successful record.
